

The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and the Duke University Classics Departments

present:

19th Annual UNC/Duke Classics Graduate Colloquium at UNC-CH
March 28–30, 2008

Keynote Presented by the UNC-Chapel Hill
History Department:

Jon E. Lendon
University of Virginia

Fri., March 28, 2008, Hamilton Hall 569
The Generation of Rules in Ancient Warfare

Keynote Presented by the UNC-Chapel Hill
and Duke University Classics Departments:

Barry Strauss
Cornell University

Sat., March 29, 2008, Murphey Hall Auditorium 116
From Genocide to Genos: What We Talk about When We Talk about Ethics and Ancient Warfare

Acts and Ethics of War and Violence in the Graeco-Roman World

Sat., March 29, 2008, 9:00 A.M., Murphey Hall Auditorium 116

Yvona Trnka-Amrhein
Harvard University

Representing Augustan Triumph: Shifting Attitudes toward the Depiction of Violence in Horace's Odes through the Lens of a New Augustan Monument

Kathryn Milne
University of Pennsylvania

"Be All That You Can Be": When to Stop Being a Soldier in the Roman Republic

Nadejda V. Popov
Princeton University

A History of Violence: Discussions of Poor Military Records in Athenian Lawsuits

Lochlan Shaffer
Johns Hopkins University

Aeneas as Lawgiver and the Supplicium of Turnus

Paul Johnstono
Duke University

Violence and Betrayal in the Cleomeneic Wars: Boundaries of Acceptable Action in the Narratives of Phylarchus, Polybius, and Plutarch

Andrea Gatzke
Pennsylvania State University

Problems With Piracy: Thoughts on Its Classification in the First Century B.C.

Elizabeth Wolfram
University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

Architectural Destruction on the Columns of Trajan and Marcus Aurelius

Péter Kató
Universität Heidelberg

Sanctuaries in the Hellenistic Wars