The following is taken directly from the Office of Undergraduate Research's webpage on the Graduate Research Consultant Program (<https://our.unc.edu/graduate-research-consulting-program/>):

- GRCs are expected to work 30 hours over the course of the semester and fall and spring semester GRCs are paid $1000 through the Office for Undergraduate Research.
- There are several ways in which a GRC is different from a TA. The major difference is that a GRC "coaches" students, but does not grade their work. The GRC has extended knowledge in research methodology. Additionally, a GRC does not attend all of the class sessions. Instead, GRCs can be available for individual or group consultation outside of class hours or they might attend selected classes. In rare instances, a graduate student might serve as both a GRC and a TA, if the different roles in the course are clearly defined.

Please review the statement below and sign:

I understand that GRCs do not grade student work, do not scan or make copies for the regular class curriculum, nor do they attend all class sessions. A GRC may attend selected class meetings for introduction and research related discussions.
