This workshop brings together scholars from around the world to consider the role of space in Imperial Greek literature. Beginning from the essential questions of how authors of the Imperial period evoke different spaces and why they describe them in the ways that they do, this workshop will interrogate the relationship between lived space, society, and power and its depiction in literature. For more information and to attend the workshop, please contact Dr. Anna Peterson (aip12@psu.edu) or Dr. Janet Downie (jdownie@email.unc.edu).
